Where does Michigan corn go?
Find your way through the maze.

Field corn is used to feed cows, pigs, chickens and other farm animals.

Field corn is also used to make ethanol, which is a biofuel that can power your car.

Corn on the cob is sweet corn, which is grown on less than 1% of the total corn acres.

Corn is America’s number one field crop.

Most of the corn farmers grow is field corn, not sweet corn.

97% of farms are family owned.

Michigan corn growers plant more than two million acres of field corn each year!